

Alice Trindle presents

Horse Study

A four-year commitment to yourself,
your horse, and to the relationship.

First Year Theme

“Mastery of Balance”

Are you serious about your commitment?

For the past several years I have been asked by aspiring horseman why I don't have a continuing education course that would exist over several years that could mirror the long-term commitment we have to our horses. Clinics are great. Retreats are fun. Lessons are critical. But what of further, deeper study with the goal of truly developing a light, supple horse, along with a relationship that will last a life-time.

New Freshman class of 2015

In 2015 we will open the final opportunity to join Horse Study. As the Freshman class, Horse Study will explore the depths of understanding Balance...bio-mechanically, observing how we effect balance, and ultimately preparing the horse's mental and physical attributes to be capable of balance under saddle. The syllabus will guide you through the understandings and applications of:

Contents: Liberty work

- Lunge and Cavalletti work
- Driving on the long lines
- Work in Hand

Dates 2015 First-Year Class:

- June 26 - 28
- July 31 - August 2
- August 28 - 30
- September 25 - 27

Alice Trindle believes that true horsemanship is an art form that is built on a connection between horse and rider. It takes time, patience, and understanding. This foundation is created on ancient knowledge gathered from Master Horsemen and embodied in Classical Dressage and Traditional Vaquero pursuits. Horse Study is our commitment to studying these principles and ultimately developing a relationship in lightness.
